Prices 2019

Important: The trip to Bournemouth normally has a Saturday departure and Sunday return (except for the first and last week of the holidays). This means that if your particular programme ends on one of these days, you will spend an extra two nights (with full board) with your host family (included in the trip price).

For this extra night (Saturday - Sunday), it may be the case that a higher number of new students than anticipated require a bed for the beginning of their own programme. In this situation of overlap, the level of comfort for the student may temporarily be a spare bed or futon.

Students who are not staying in Bournemouth but instead need a transfer to Oxford, or Southampton, will spend the night between Saturday and Sunday (both upon arrival and before departure) at the group leader's residence in Bournemouth. The group leaders will receive the students upon arrival and devote their full attention to looking after them. Students of the same age and gender will share a room.
