England

Do you want to study in an English college? We offer placements in an English college. In England, "college" refers to an institution between secondary and higher education, that is, between high school and university.

Students are typically between the ages of 16 and 19 who are taking classes in preparation for the AS-Level, A-Level or National Diploma exams that are required for applying to university. Courses usually take place during the day, but very often there are evening or part-time programs designed for older or working students.

With our partner colleges in England, we have developed a program that is designed to prepare foreign students for university in England or back home, or simply to improve their English. Participants can take English lessons alongside academic lessons with British students.

In general, colleges offer courses like sciences, languages, maths, psychologies, law, communication, graphic design etc. But also practical classes such as fashion design and tourism. Participants to this programs can follow an English course most of the time.

Attention, these programs require at least 4 years of English lessons at your school.
